NO. 15

BOARD BUSY ON CLAIMS FOR MARCH

PRACTICALLY ENTIRE SESSION OF SUPERVISORS TAKEN UP WITH PAYING OF CURRENT BILLS AGAINST COUNTY TREASURY.

Monday was claims day, and the consideration of various claims against the county treasury occupied practically all the time of the supervisors' session at Redwood City. There were a large number of claims for the month of March and several holdovers of earlier date.

The members of the board were engaged until 12:15 o'clock with the many claims, and found little time to consider other matters.

District Attorney Franklin Swart appeared before the board and presented a petition from residents of San Carlos for the formation of a fire district, and the matter was continued to April 16th for further hearing.

A resolution was adopted approving a map of Woodside Acres No. 1, as laid out by Sawyer Y. Monckton, and a similar resolution approved a map of Selby Park, property near Atherton owned by Percival W. Selby. Both maps were ordered placed on record in the office of County Recorder T. C. Rice.

Mrs. Rosalie M. Brown of the second road district informed the board that she had spoken to Engineer J. H. Skeggs of the State Highway Commission regarding the repairing of the state highway inside of the limits of the city of San Mateo, and that Skeggs had agreed to do the work for the county if so ordered by the board. This method of having the repairs made will be much cheaper than if done by the county, it is said, and on Mrs. Brown's motion, seconded by Supervisor Francis, the clerk was requested to address a communication to the State Highway Commission asking that the work be done.

The next meeting of the board will be held on April 16th.

GIVEN DRINK BY STRANGER; ROBBED WHILE HE SLEPT

Henry Strum of Colma woke up in the Central Emergency Hospital, San Francisco, Tuesday and discovered that a "generous friend" who had presented him with a bottle of alleged rare Scotch whisky, had in reality given him a bottle of wood alcohol and later robbed him of $45.

Strum met the "friend" at Seventh and Harrison streets, San Francisco, he told the police. Following a drink from the proffered bottle, Strum collapsed and remembered no more until he woke in the hospital, he said.

S. F. CHAMBER TELLS TRADE TOUR PURPOSE

Party to Stimulate Commercial Inter-course With Neighboring Republic Leaves S. F. Wednesday.

Statement of purpose of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce trade extension tour to Mexico, which left Wednesday. It is issued in behalf of the delegation by E. O. McCormick, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Railroad, as chairman, and Judge William H. Langdon, presiding justice of the California court of appeal, as vice-chairman.

To All Citizens of Mexico: We, Americans, citizens of the United States, are to visit you, Americans, citizens of our sister republic of Mexico.

We are closely bound by traditions to your wonderful country, possessing a civilization which perhaps antedates the Pharaohs of Egypt. In natural resources Mexico ranks as one of the greatest countries. It is aptly termed, "The paradise of the world."

As representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, as representatives of the city of San Francisco, as representatives of California, and as citizens of the United States, we are coming with open minds and with open hearts to learn and act upon any information you would like the world to have.

We are to visit you to get better acquainted personally, and, as merchants, to become more familiar with your methods so that those desiring to buy of Mexico's products or dispose of California's commodities, may have better opportunity to do business, greatly increasing the commerce between Mexico and the United States, particularly California.

Further, we trust we may plant seeds of good will, to the end that friendship and amity may always exist between the two republics. We cherish the hope that the visit of this little group of California merchants will redound to the glory and benefit, not only of San Francisco, but the entire state of California and to the advantage of Mexico.

TWO BOYS STEAL HORSE; NOW IN JUVENILE COURT

Two local boys of tender years decided they wanted a horse of their own, so they staged a real old-fashioned horse stealing last Sunday. They broke open the locked stable door of Peter Lind, proprietor of Lind's Market, and took one of the steeds which Mr. Lind uses to deliver meat to his customers. A short time afterward Officer Louis Belloni found the boys riding the horse and took them into custody. They will be given a hearing in the juvenile court. In accordance with its custom in the case of young delinquents, The Enterprise refrains from publishing the boys' names.

OFFICER BELLONI TAKES UP FIVE TRAFFIC VIOLATORS

Officer Louis Belloni gathered in five motorists, all San Francisco men Sunday for cutting corners in this city. All were cited to appear before Judge J. G. Walker in this city Wednesday, and all but one put in an appearance. Each was fined $5. The four were John Anderson, H. C. Darrow, J. Lange and Henry Alles. The fifth who did not appear was E. P. Garrett of 2992 Army street. Unless Garrett shows up a warrant will be issued for him.

EXTRA

The Irishtown Natives defeated the Frenchtown team in a hotly contested game of baseball played here according to a communication slipped under the door of The Enterprise office. This missive, which is much evaded and blurred and bears evidence of laborious effort in its writing, declares that the score was 15 to 13, but fails to give the date of the game or the place where it was played. It says the pitching of Ray Bolli and Zickle Monize was the feature of the game. It is signed "The Irishtown Gang."

E. H. LEWIS OPENS FINE NEW AUTO SALESROOM

E. H. Lewis, former proprietor of the Service Garage, which he sold recently, has opened a fine new auto salesroom in the building formerly occupied by the Hub dry goods store. The big room has been thoroughly renovated and repainted and is up-to-date in appearance. Mr. Lewis has the agency for the Chevrolet and Jewett line of cars, samples of each line being on the floor.

H. M. POOL DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

Father of Mrs. W. H. Coffinberry Passes With Heart Disease.

Henry Moore Pool, father of Mrs. W. H. Coffinberry, who died at an early hour Tuesday, was laid to rest this morning (Thursday). Services were conducted at the Coffinberry home by the Rev. A. P. Beall, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church. Burial followed at Cypress Lawn Cemetery. The bier was banked with a profusion of beautiful flowers, which bore mute testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The funeral was in charge of S. Nieri.

Mr. Pool had been a resident of this city for eight years, living at the home of his daughter. He was a native of Baltimore, Md. During his residence here he lived a somewhat retired life, mingling but little in the activities of the town, but all who met the quiet, reserved man respected him highly. Valvular heart disease was given as the cause of death. He had been ill for about a year, but when death came Mr. Pool passed on as he had lived, quietly and peacefully.

MINSTREL SHOW DRAWS TWO LARGE AUDIENCES

Fraternal Hall was well filled both Friday and Saturday evenings of last week, when the Industrial Club of this city staged its second annual minstrel show. And all who attended, apparently, were of the opinion that an excellent entertainment had been given. Numbers that drew especial applause were the vocal selections of Miss Amelia Da Prato and Henry Minucciani; instrumental numbers by Horace Bewley, M. L. Spangler, Raymond Spangler, Byrne McGovern; dancing numbers by John F. Mager and by the little Reichel sisters, Helen and Frances, and the songs of Justice J. G. Walker, L. G. Hardy, Dr. J. C. McGovern, George Beveridge, and N. A. Wright. Dr. F. S. Dolley as interlocutor gave an excellent account of himself, and the jokes and songs of Edmond Scotty Butterworth and Elton Lambert "brought down the house" again and again. Most of those in attendance Saturday evening remained for the dance after the show.

PROPERTY OWNERS TRY TO STOP BUILDING OF WALL

Ella W. Collopy and James and John Millet, in suits filed Tuesday in the office of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Kneese by Attorneys Sullivan, Sullivan & Roach of San Francisco, seek to prevent the State Highway Commission from proceeding with the work of building the safety wall between the state highway and the tracks of the Market Street Railway from Colma to Holy Cross Cemetery, and ask the superior court to issue a temporary restraining order directed against the Highway Commission until such a time as the matter can be determined by the court.

The complaints allege that the plaintiffs are owners of property across the railway tracks from the highway, and that ingress and egress to their property will be prevented by the wall, they having an easement over the property. Applications for restraining orders were to be presented to Judge George H. Buck of the superior court.

LITTLE REICHEL SISTERS TO DANCE AT SHRINE SHOW

Frances and Helen Reichel, the dainty little sisters who danced their way into everybody's heart at the Industrial Club minstrel show in this city last Friday and Saturday evenings, are scheduled to dance at the big Arabian Nights pageant and Mardi Gras at the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco, April 26th, 27th and 28th. These tiny girls, the younger only 5 and the other a year or two older, give a performance that would be a credit to children several times their age. One of their first performances in this city was at the opera, "Cinderella," staged here by school children recently. The two little girls created a sensation at that entertainment.

TRIAL OF DANIEL P. LEWIS BEGIN WEDNESDAY MORNING

The trial of Daniel P. Lewis, Stanford medical student, charged with a statutory offense against a 16-year-old girl, was begun in the superior court Wednesday morning before Judge George H. Buck. The jury trying the case is composed of ten women and two men. It was thought that the trial would be completed by late today.

College degrees do not indicate education, but they ought to indicate that you know how to spell, which they frequently don't.

"DEATH GATES" NOW BEING MOVED AWAY

Famous Stone Pillars of Burlingame Finally Taken From Highway.

The famous "death gates" on the highway at the southern city limits of Burlingame are at last being moved. After serving as a bone of contention for a year or more and after having been made the subject of at least two drastic orders for their removal by the county supervisors, the stone pillars, known the state over as "Burlingame's Death Gates" are now being taken from the highway, where they have figured as the cause of several fatal auto accidents.

The first steps to move the pillars were taken Wednesday morning, when Contractor Frank Anderson, employed by the city trustees, started the work of removing the pillars of the gate, each weighing more than thirty tons.

The west pillar of the gate was the first to receive attention, the work of jacking it up for removal requiring an entire day. From its present position on the highway the pillar will be moved to a final resting place on the lawn of the home of J. A. Monahan, one of the staunchest defenders of the gates.

When the problem of disposal of the gates came before the city trustees, Monahan volunteered a "home" for one of the much-sinning pillars and, following his lead, Police Judge A. A. Meyer offered to "care" for the other. Monahan and Judge Meyer have long considered the gates a real artistic asset to Burlingame, and their offer was accepted.

More than two months have elapsed since the San Mateo county board of supervisors ordered the gates taken down. Enthusiastic admirers of the artistic beauty of the mammoth pillars pointed out that the accidents that the gates had been held responsible for were in reality entirely the fault of reckless or intoxicated motorists.

AUTO SHOW TO FEATURE BIG FAIR

Applications Now Coming In Indicate That Autos and Accessories Will Make Big Showing.

Automobiles and their accessories will have a prominent place in the big exhibit tent at the Peninsula Pageant of Progress and Fair to be held at San Carlos May 26th to June 3d. At the rate in which applications are coming in from these concerns, the show promises to be second only to that held annually in San Francisco, which is now rated first in the country among similar exhibits. It is significant of the advertising value placed on this exhibition that firms from south of the Tehachapi are quite as numerous as their northern competitors.

Situated as they are on the main highway, the fair grounds will attract thousands of automobilists and every precaution is being made to give these visitors a maximum of comfort. Road rules are being worked out to secure a minimum of congestion, and parking grounds right next to the exposition have been leased which will accommodate 25,000 machines, more than are likely at any one time to be collected during the life of the project.

Every protection will be thrown about the various exhibits, as there will be special officers engaged who will be on watch night and day. As it is expected that it will be necessary to devote about 50,000 square feet of space for the accommodation of the automobile section, the value of this feature alone will run up into the millions of dollars. Among the recent concerns to take space are the Maxwell and Chevrolet firms.

For the accommodation of peninsula exhibitors, an office has been temporarily opened at the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce, while San Francisco's prospective exhibitors will be attended to in an office which, for the time being, is located at 350 Hayes street. Attractive features of all kinds are daily being added, so that by the time they are programmed the exhibition will be wide in its scope.

EIGHTY MILLIONS VICTORY NOTES ARE STILL OUT

The following letter from the Treasury Department is self-explanatory:

To all Publishers in the Twelfth Federal Reserve District—Dear Sirs: To clear up what appears to be a serious misunderstanding in the public mind, you are requested to explain to your readers at the first opportunity that the so-called "Victory Notes" are the securities which were issued and sold by the United States government for the fifth (last) Liberty loan campaign (spring of 1919), the same as "Liberty Bonds" were provided for the first, second, third and fourth Liberty loan campaigns. Therefore, "Victory Notes" were to the last Liberty loan campaign what "Liberty Bonds" were to the previous government finance campaigns during the recent world war period; in short, instead of being styled "bonds" in the fifth campaign they were designated "notes."

Perhaps the failure of many people to understand this accounts for the fact that some eighty million dollars' worth of the Victory notes, which were "called" by the Treasury Department for redemption on December 15, 1923, are still outstanding, although they ceased bearing interest after that date. These particular notes have the letters A, B, C, D, E or F prefixed to their serial numbers. The Treasury Department states that in the aggregate owners of the "called" Victory notes are consequently losing interest at the rate of about ten thousand dollars per day, amounting to more than one million dollars since the notes stopped bearing interest the middle of last December.

Despite the fact that this loss has been repeatedly emphasized by the federal authorities through display advertisements, special press dispatches and reader-notices in the newspapers, many owners are still neglecting to cash these "called" notes. The government is, of course, the gainer monetarily through this negligence, because it is thereby enjoying free use of the money, which, however, it stands ready to pay upon application and surrender of the notes.

It must be terribly irritating to the self-satisfied children of light to think that so many children of darkness appear so happy.

"Filthy lucre" is so called because a man appreciates it most after he has been "cleaned."

MANY RESORTS IN COUNTY CLOSED

ABATEMENT PROCEEDINGS FILED BY DIST. ATTORNEY AGAINST PLACES WHICH HAVE VIOLATED PROHIBITION LAWS.

Abatement proceedings against a number of San Mateo county restaurants and roadhouses were filed in the superior court Monday of this week, and Tuesday sheriff and deputies were busy all day serving the restraining orders. The district attorney is proceeding against the places named under the Wright act, and each suit alleges that liquor has been sold on the premises in violation of the Volstead act.

Named as defendants are the operators, the owners of the property, holders of mortgages, numerous John Does, etc.

The places named in the complaints, sworn to by Harry Taylor of San Mateo, are as follows:

Beach Inn, Miramar, M. J. Bernardo, proprietor; Ben Race's Place, Portola Valley, Ben Race, proprietor; Villa Hotel, Colma, Hannah Gadin, proprietor; two Chinese chop suey restaurants, Menlo Park, Wong Wing, proprietor; Ternazi Hotel, Millbrae, Madeline Ternazi, proprietor.

Temporary restraining orders, preventing the places named from operating pending a hearing of the complaints, were signed by Superior Judge George H. Buck, and were returnable on Friday, April 13th.

The two Chinese places at Menlo Park are said to be the principal sources of supply for the liquor furnished to the veterans at the U. S. Public Health Hospital. Here gambling is also said to flourish, and reports have been made that several of the hospital men have lost large sums while under the influence of the liquor sold.

According to District Attorney Swart, similar suits will be filed against every place in San Mateo county where evidence is obtained that liquor is being sold. "We consider this to be the only way to put a stop to the sale of liquor," said Swart. "If the owners of the property are brought to a realization that those places where liquor is sold will be closed up tight for a period of a year, they will undoubtedly take steps to put a stop to it. As fast as the evidence can be secured abatement suits will be filed against other places, and we hope to eventually close up every place in San Mateo county where the law is violated."

ASKING PROBATION FOR YOUNG DESPERADOES

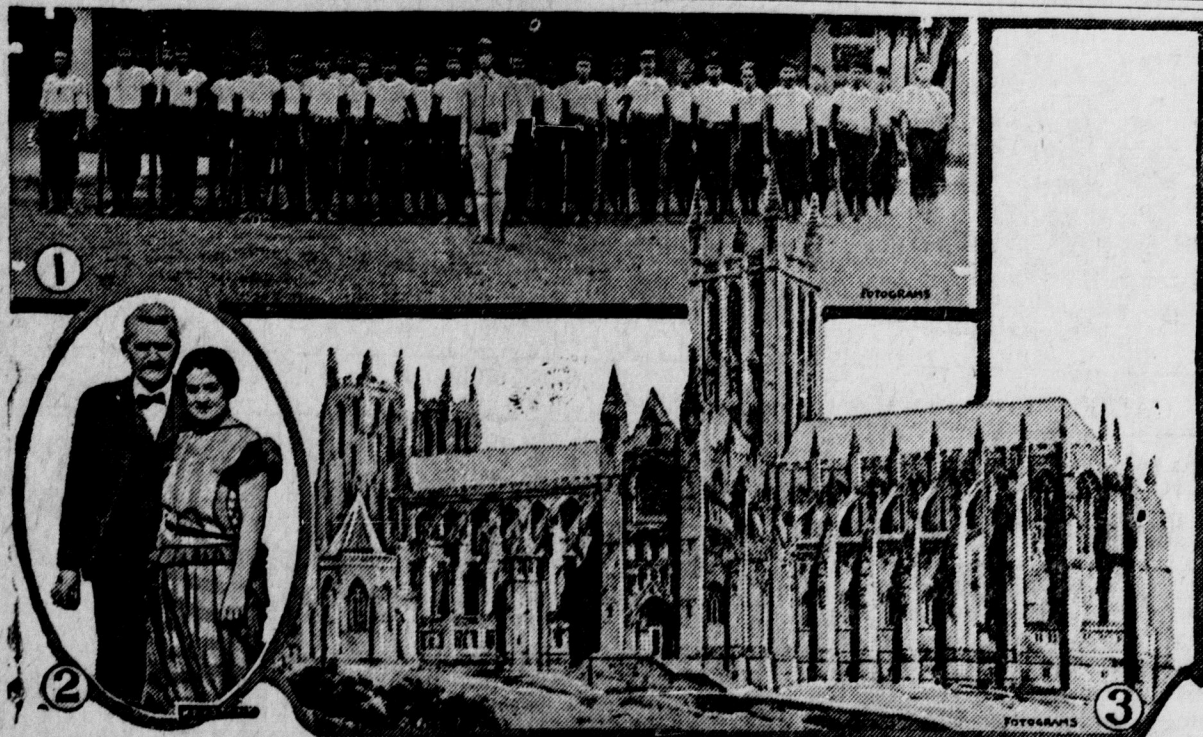

Charles R. Burger, president of the Los Angeles County Civic Service Commission, was in Redwood City this week interviewing local officials in the interest of Gordon L. Tescher, John M. Helm and Lawrence McCarthy, three 19-year-old youths, who were convicted of murder and sentenced to San Quentin prison for life in November of 1919 for the slaying of Michael J. Needham, San Francisco rent car dealer, near South San Francisco.

According to the testimony at the trials, the three young men engaged Needham to drive them down the peninsula and, when near Baden, attacked him with a hammer, after which they carried him into the wilderness alongside the highway. The dead body of the driver was found several days later and, working on a clue that pointed suspicion at the three youths, ex-Sheriff Michael Sheehan traced them to Ogden, Utah, where they were arrested. Brought back to Redwood City and placed on trial for the murder, the trio confessed and were given life terms in San Quentin by Judge George H. Buck of the superior court.

A petition has been presented to Governor Richardson asking to have the youths' sentence commuted to ten years, and it was in the interest of the petition that Burger was interviewing Redwood officials this week.

Old Dobbin couldn't cover as much ground as an automobile, but on a cold morning was when he started the best.

It takes years to discover that you alone can smooth out the bumps in the road to success.

Plans of Communists for Anti-American Drive Revealed in Foster Trial.

LEGAL PARTY MERE SHIELD?

Rising Price of Sugar Causes Investigation—Early British Intervention in Ruhr Situation Is Possible—Russia Condemns Catholic Prelates to Death—Packing Concerns Merged.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

ARE you and your friends aware of the persistent and insidious campaign that is being carried on by the communists, bolsheviks, radical socialists and other varieties of "Reds" in the United States with the purpose of undermining and destroying the government? Are you fully awake to the danger, or do you believe there is no danger to America in the work of these world revolutionists?

IN THE opinion of the American officials and many other citizens who are well informed, the people of this country are not devoting sufficient thought to the doings of the "Reds" in the United States under the instructions of the third internationale whose headquarters are in Moscow. If the information supplied by secret government agents and used by the prosecution in the trial of William Z. Foster and others for violation of the Michigan anti-syndicalism law is to be relied upon, the Russian Communist organization is planning a great anti-American drive for the immediate future. A call has been sent out for a Communist convention in May to consider the organization details of a legal political party under which the illegal activities of the Communists may be sheltered. The call, which is signed by John Richards, says in part:

"Under good and bad leadership it (the Communist party) remains our party. Within our party we are bound together by common aims, with common hopes and aspirations. Our party is a world party under the guidance and discipline of the Communist internationale.

"The executive committee of the Communist internationale has made a decision for our section, the Communist party of America. (This decision is for an open political party and an underground true Communist party functioning as one). Not one true Communist will desert or lessen his activities. We shall unite to carry out the decision."

Minutes of the governing body of the third internationale, presented at the Foster trial, show that the Workers' party in America was created by decision of the internationale. The document, discussing the American situation, says: "Under existing circumstances it is impossible for the Communist party in the United States to be a legal party. Of course the party can develop open labor organizations, such as the Trade Union Educational league, of which Foster is secretary. It can even build legal revolutionary workers' organizations. It must also launch a legal party with the purpose that the communists can enter openly its ranks without permitting the police to know which of the members are Communists and which are not.

"But the underground organization, whose membership consists entirely of Communists, must not be liquidated. On the contrary it must be built firmer and stronger.

"It is the duty of the Communist party to defeat by any means that may be necessary the capitalist government attempts to confine the revolutionary party to the underground channels. In carrying out these instructions, the Communist party must guard itself against the tendency to repudiate or neglect the illegal work—the tendency to become legal in fact." Last week the chief witness in the Michigan trial was Charles F. Ruthenburg, secretary of the Workers' party. Through his testimony was developed the main part of the defense—that the legal party is all there is left of the Communist movement in America.

INDIRECTLY connected with the "Red" campaign—but connected, nevertheless, in the minds of thinking persons—are innumerable circumstances, events and superficially harmless movements and propaganda. The leaders of the Republican party are realizing that the party is being endangered by the activities of the radicals who remain within its ranks and apparently would be glad to have them get out and into a third party of their own. The current number of the National Republican, the semi-official organ of the Republican national committee, contains an editorial in which this paragraph appears:

"Radical organizations having their headquarters in Washington have been advising their Socialist devotees to 'bore from within' the existing old parties, with a view to revolutionizing the principles of these parties while retaining their names. Republicanism has stood for about all the 'boring from within' consistent with the preservation of the party.

"The Whig party was compromised out of existence and that fate is possible to any party whose really loyal leaders and members will not battle the hostile invaders who have come through the wall under the camouflage of a Trojan horse. It is not too much to ask that men who claim to be Republicans should believe in the fundamental principles of Republicanism and not look upon the Republican party merely as a convenient means of getting their names on the public pay roll."

PRESIDENT HARDING, while in St. Augustine, let it be known that he thinks the statement of Attorney General Daugherty, that Mr. Harding would be a candidate for renomination and would have no real opposition, might better have been withheld for the present. The President in his study of the situation is understood to have singly in his mind the two remaining years of his administration and to feel that proper solution of the problems they will present should be subject of more thought than what is to happen to him personally in 1924. Mr. Daugherty has made it plain since giving out his statement that it was not inspired by the President. Last Tuesday Secretary of War Weeks made substantially the same prediction as did Mr. Daugherty. In his opinion Mr. Harding will have no opposition in the party convention except possibly that of Senator La Follette, representing the radical elements of the party.

BY THE death of Senator Nicholson of Colorado and the imminent appointment of a Democrat to succeed him, the Republican majority in the senate will be so reduced that La Follette's radical bloc will hold the balance of power. Woodrow Wilson telegraphed to Governor Sweet urging the appointment to the senate of Houston Thompson, one of his warm supporters and now a member of the federal trade commission. William G. McAdoo has asked the governor to give the place to Morrison Shaffroth of Denver. Mr. Sweet says he will take his time in filling the vacancy. Mr. Wilson's action is taken by many as an indication that he is ready to resume the leadership of his party, if the party is willing.

RECENT increases in the retail price of sugar, with predictions that the commodity would soon sell for 20 cents a pound, have given great concern not only to householders generally but especially to politicians. The Department of Justice has been investigating the truth of charges made by the People's Legislative service that sugar manipulators have conspired to rob the people of millions of dollars; and in response to the assertions of certain Democrats and others that the rise is due to the increased duty of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law President Harding instructed the federal tariff commission to ascertain the facts, promising to reduce the tariff if it were found excessive, as he is authorized to do. It is understood the commission has decided the advances in price have nothing to do with the increased tariff and will recommend no reduction of the duty.

ALL opposition parties in the house of commons made a massed attack last week on the British government's policy of inaction in connection with the Ruhr situation, and the debate brought out a statement indicating that intervention by Great Britain may come in the near future. Chancellor Baldwin, speaking for Prime Minister Bonar Law, said: "The government could have done nothing more than it has done. Premature interference by a third party in any dispute inevitably leads to disaster, but I believe the moment may come when our services to our allies and to Germany may be of immense value. The moment we believe that an intervention suggestion or anything else in the way of a step towards settlement may prove successful, we will act."

Rosenberg, German foreign minister, says Germany is ready to negotiate with France without waiting for the French to get out of the Ruhr, but he thinks it will be months before any arrangement is placed under discussion.

Premier Poincare says he hopes Germany will yield before the end of May, but when questioned sharply by the opposition in the chamber he declared France would engage in no conversations with Germany, direct or indirect. "It is odious to attribute to France designs of annexation," he asserted, while the radicals laughed. "We went into the Ruhr to get reparations and for no other reason. We will leave the Ruhr when Germany pays and not before."

Socialists of England, France, Italy, Belgium and Germany, in conference in Berlin, devised a reparations program to be submitted to the convention of allied Socialists in Paris. Their plan embraces these main projects: First, that the reparations total be based on the reconstruction costs of northern France and Belgium, that the sum must be fixed by a special commission, and that it must not include pensions and similar charges. Second, that some settlement of the interallied debts, including money owed to the United States, be reached in connection with the reparations problem. Third, that England and Italy and, if possible, the United States, join in guaranteeing France's security against German aggression.

SOVIET Russia last week was on the verge of committing an act that would have outraged the feelings of the civilized world. Archbishop Zepeliak and Mgr. Butchkevich of the Roman Catholic church were tried before the Supreme court in Moscow for counter-revolutionary activities and were found guilty and sentenced to speedy death. Protests were received from Poland, the United States State department and the pope, and Russia's amnesty department committee granted a temporary stay of sentence and referred the appeals for clemency to the central executive committee. It is predicted the Bolsheviks will be satisfied with the deportation of the churchmen.

TWO of the world's greatest packing concerns, the Armour and Morris companies, were consolidated last week after months of negotiation. A new holding corporation was formed with a capital of $550,000,000. Morris & Co. was purchased by the North American Provision company, a subsidiary of Armour & Co. of Delaware, in turn a subsidiary of Armour & Co. of Illinois, for approximately $27,450,000, payments to be made in cash and stock. With the liquidation of Morris & Co., Armour & Co. will have total assets of approximately $530,000,000, according to available balance sheets of the two concerns. In 1921 the aggregate sales of the two companies were approximately $880,000,000.

SARAH BERNHARDT'S astonishing fight for life came to an end last Tuesday, and France, and with her all the world, mourned the passing of the greatest actress of the age. While messages of condolence by the thousands poured in from every land, the body of the Divine Sarah lay in the rosewood coffin she had made for herself many years ago, and on Thursday, after a most imposing funeral, she was laid to rest in Pere La Chaise.

Woods Named for the Mikado's Court

Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania, ambassador to Spain (portrait herewith), was nominated by President Harding to be ambassador to Japan, succeeding Charles B. Warren, who recently resigned. Alexander P. Moore, Pittsburgh publisher, was nominated to be ambassador to Spain to succeed Ambassador Woods.

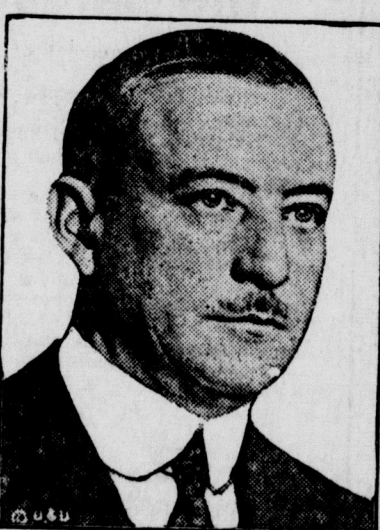

The new ambassador to the Mikado's court was born in Pennsylvania in 1861. He's a college man and practiced law in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, 1884-1912. He was appointed minister to Portugal in 1912 and served till 1915, when he retired. He was a member of the Pennsylvania state senate, 1900-1908, and president, 1905-8. He was secretary of state for Pennsylvania for the terms 1915-23. He resigned in 1921 to become ambassador to Spain by appointment of President Harding. His home is at Greensburg, Pa.

Mr. Warren, the retiring ambassador to Japan, is a Michigan man. He has served since 1921. He is a college man and a lawyer and has had wide experience in international affairs.

Ambassador Woods goes to fill an important position in our diplomatic service. It is believed that America's relations with Japan are on a more friendly basis since the armament conference. Nevertheless, the status of the Japanese in the United States is a sore spot with the mikado's people.

O'Ryan and Hines to Clean House

In response to the long awaited official command to clean house in the United States Veterans' bureau, the $450,000,000 a year business which cares for those maimed in the great war, Major General John F. O'Ryan, commander of New York's famous Twenty-seventh division (portrait herewith), is hard at work. He says that guaranteeing a fair deal to every disabled veteran with the least possible delay and difficulty to the soldier will be the first consideration of his committee of inquiry. Then he expects to delve to the bottom of all the old charges of irregularities.

The undertaking, for which special provision was made by congress before its adjournment, is being started under the most favorable circumstances. As head of the investigating committee the New York general officer, who was one of the few to retain command of his division throughout the war, has the complete co-operation of Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, who has just assumed the directorship of the veterans' bureau. Efforts will be made by General Hines not only to co-operate with the investigation, but also to remedy defects in the organization as they are uncovered.

Woman Chosen President of Radcliffe

Election of Miss Ada Louise Comstock, dean of Smith college, as president of Radcliffe college is announced. She will be the first full-time president of Radcliffe, succeeding President Le Baron R. Briggs, who for twenty years has been both head of Radcliffe and dean of the Harvard faculty of arts and sciences. The relations between Harvard university and Radcliffe college are now so firmly established as to no longer require as president a member of the Harvard faculty serving as a link between the two institutions. This made possible the consideration of women as well as men.

Miss Comstock, since 1921, has been president of the American Association of University Women. She was born in Moorhead, Minn., and after studying for two years at the State university transferred to Smith college, where she was graduated with the class of 1897. In 1899 she received a master's degree from Columbia university. She then returned to the University of Minnesota to teach and in 1900 became a professor of English after a year of study at the Sorbonne.

As the first dean of women at Minnesota, Miss Comstock, although only thirty-two years of age, was credited with pioneer work in bringing to the fore the importance of college education for women. In September, 1912, she went to Smith college, which had never previously had a dean. In that year Mount Holyoke conferred on her the honorary degree of Litt D. The University of Michigan added an honorary degree of LL. D. in 1921.

Why Heflin Wouldn't Thank Coolidge

When the senate adjourned the fact that the customary resolution of thanks to the vice president for his "fairness and courtesy" in presiding over the senate was not even introduced caused much comment on both sides of the chamber. The custom has always been for a representative of the minority to offer such a resolution, its adoption following as a matter of course. It now transpires that Heflin of Alabama prevented the resolution. He said, in explanation:

"It is true that I gave notice to certain Democratic senators that, if a resolution thanking Mr. Coolidge was adopted, I would not only object to its consideration but would also make a speech against it. I took that course because the vice president had sustained the point of order made by Mr. Lodge during the debate on the British debt bill, in the course of which debate I happened to mention the fact that I was not a servant of Wall street. Lodge's point of order took me off the floor and Coolidge sustained the point of order, or, to be more exact, he participated in a rape of the rules of the United States Senate."

Just before the senate adjourned Senator Myers of Montana moved over to the seat next to Mr. Heflin and requested the Alabama senator to absent himself from the chamber for a few minutes. "What for?" Senator Heflin asked. Senator Myers replied that he was voluntarily retiring to private life and desired to offer a resolution extending the thanks of the senate to the vice president for his fairness as presiding officer. Heflin refused.

The KITCHEN CABINET

On the sun-dial in the garden. The great sun keeps the time; A faint, small, moving shadow, And we know the worlds are in time; And if once that shadow should falter By the space of a child's eyelash, The seas would devour the mountains, And the stars together would crash.
—Richard Watson Gilder.

DISHES FROM STALE BREAD

Leftover bread is like the poor, always with us. The cut slices of bread need not be considered, as they may be used to make dry toast, milk toast, or French toast and are always an agreeable dish for any breakfast or luncheon.

Small bits of bread rolled or dried and put through the meat grinder may be used in countless ways. As stuffing for green peppers, fowls of all kinds, roast pork, veal breast and sparerib roasts, bread crumbs are indispensable.

Bread Fritters.—Cut stale bread into thin slices, shape with a biscuit cutter, spread with jam, dip in the following batter after putting the slices together as sandwiches:

Sift one cupful of bread flour with one tablespoonful of powdered sugar and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, add two-thirds of a cupful of milk, gradually, and two well-beaten egg yolks. Add one tablespoonful of olive oil and the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Dip and fry in deep fat.

Toasted bread for garnishing, for croutons, for soup and for canapés will be useful ways of using stale bread.

Bread Pudding.—Spread slices of stale bread, or broken bits may be dotted with butter, cover with stewed or fresh rhubarb well-sweetened, and bake until the bread is softened. Serve with cream and sugar. Any stewed or canned fruit may be used for this pudding.

Fried oysters rolled in crumbs seasoned with salt and pepper and fried in butter make a good supper dish. Cracker crumbs are fully as good.

For all escalloped dishes a nice top of buttered crumbs adds to the appearance as well as the palatability.

Large onions may be cooked until partly tender and stuffed with seasoned meat, sausage and bread crumbs for filling. Bake, basting with butter and water until the onions are perfectly tender.

A room without flowers in summer is as devoid of character and charm as a man without a necktie.
"We come now to the root of the matter."

HOME-MADE CANDIES

The candy made at home is always much cheaper and usually more wholesome than that bought in the shops.

Butter Scotch.—Take two cupfuls of granulated sugar, two tablespoonfuls of water, a tablespoonful of butter and boil without stirring until it hardens in the spoon. Pour out on flat buttered plates and when cool mark in squares.

Candied Popcorn.—Boil one cupful of pulverized sugar, three tablespoonfuls of water, and one tablespoonful of butter until it is just ready to grain; add three quarts of nicely popped corn, stir until the kernels are coated.

Molasses Candy.—To one and one-half pounds of sugar add one cupful of molasses, one cupful of water, and one-fourth cupful of vinegar. Boil until a hard ball may be formed in cold water, add one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar as soon as the boiling commences. When almost done add one-half cupful of butter and one-fourth teaspoonful of soda. Pour out to cool, then pull.

Sultana Caramels.—Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add two cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of milk, one-fourth cupful of molasses, and heat to the boiling point and boil seven minutes. Add two squares of unsweetened chocolate and stir until melted, then boil seven minutes longer, add one cupful of chopped nuts and two tablespoonfuls of chopped raisins. Beat until creamy. Pour out and mark in squares.

Ice Cream Candy.—Mix three cupfuls of granulated sugar with one-half cupful of vinegar and one and one-half cupfuls of cold water and a tablespoonful of butter. Boil to a hard ball, then pull when cool.

Coconut Candy.—Take powdered sugar, using a cupful; add a tablespoonful of softened butter and cream it well into the sugar; add coffee, a few drops at a time, mixing well, until the sugar is creamy; stir in a cupful of coconut and drop by spoonfuls on a buttered paper.

Glaced Brazil Nuts.—Crack the nuts and peel off the brown skin. Take one cupful of sugar, one-quarter of a cupful of water and boil until the syrup becomes a light straw color or will be very crisp when dropped into cold water. Stir in the nuts, drip and lay them on a greased plate to harden.

OXO-GAS
the Safest Known Fuel

From the standpoint of safety the OXO-GAS Heater has no equal.

There are no hot coals to fall on the floor, no possibility of an explosion, the gas being made as it is used.

Kerosene, as is well known, is not volatile. It is in universal use and is far safer than any other known medium for heating purposes.

The ordinary kerosene wick stove in common use can be tipped over and the oil scattered all over the floor.

Whereas there is no possibility of an accident of this kind occurring with the OXO-GAS Heater. Its safety is increased a hundredfold, as the oil is contained in a sealed tank of great strength situated at some distance from any possibility of contact with the flame, and the hollow wire used to convey the oil to the heater is so small in diameter that one hundred feet of it would not hold a tablespoon of oil, and as the oil in its liquid state is a cleaner the wire will never block up.

SAN BRUNO

S. Lombardi is having the interior of his home altered and redecorated.

Mrs. William Nerni of Fifth Addition is slowly recovering from a long siege of illness.

James Bellamy of First Addition, who was quite ill with pneumonia last week, is now on the road to recovery.

This week the city of San Francisco has a clean-up week. South City had one not so long ago. Why cannot San Bruno have one, too?

An old-time costume party will be given Friday evening, April 20th, at the N. D. Hall by the drill team of the Ladies of Woodcraft.

Mrs. Tom Davis (nee Maude Tolle) of Third Addition last week gave birth to a baby girl, the first born. Mother and child are doing nicely.

Carl Svensk of Green avenue has rented the Lind cottage, corner Angus and Easton avenues, which he expects to occupy with his family shortly.

Mrs. Levy and Mrs. Cochrane, delegates of the Northbrae P. T. A., are in attendance at the convention of the second district P. T. A. at San Rafael this week.

The San Bruno Chamber of Commerce apparently has awakened from its long, peaceful slumber and promises to become a real factor in the shaping of the city's future.

Saturday evening of this week will witness the opening of the newly decorated, rechristened "Jennie Belle" Restaurant, with a special dinner, to be followed by an entertainment and dance.

Last Sunday a baseball team composed of married men of the local camp W. O. W. crossed bats with a nine of fellow members still enjoying single blessedness, losing by a score of 12 to 15.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the benefit whist party at California Hall, Saturday, April 21st, in aid of James Bellamy. It is hoped everybody will do his little bit toward this worthy cause.

In anticipation of a lively tennis season, the P. O. M. are putting in some telling work cleaning up and renovating their courts on San Mateo avenue. It is hoped to have tennis tournaments under way within a few weeks.

The firemen's whist last Saturday evening taxed the N. D. Hall to the limit with a record crowd, many of the visitors coming from neighboring cities. The Ladies' Auxiliary, which staged the affair, are highly elated at the financial success.

At the regular bimonthly meeting of the Northbrae P. T. A. Tuesday evening Mrs. Cunningham was chosen to represent the organization along with Mrs. Levy, the president, at the state P. T. A. convention at Stockton during the week of May 8th.

G. H. Hall of Belle Air Park, returning last week in his automobile from a trip to Modesto, had a narrow escape from serious injury when the windshield of his car was struck and the glass shattered by the overhang of a loaded truck coming around a corner.

Why slave for some one else? Why not be your own boss? Have your rent money buy your home. We have several homes for sale just like rent. Good buys on terms to suit your purse. Then why pay rent? It costs nothing to investigate. Wm. Maurer, real estate and insurance, San Bruno, Calif.—Advt.

Miss Rosie Wedell, second youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wedell Sr., who has for some time past been preparing herself at Oakland to become a professional nurse, last week had to submit to a serious operation. While she stood the operation well, her condition at last accounts was still critical.

All attending the party of the P. O. M. at lower California Hall last Friday evening report having had a delightful time. The greater portion of the evening was spent in dancing. Miss Eunice Dudley favored the jolly crowd with a well-rendered vocal solo, while Miss Edith Shively entertained with one of her popular original dances.

On the occasion of her twentieth birthday Miss Eunice Dudley of Huntington Park was tendered a surprise party Monday evening by the Y. P. L., of which organization she is president, at the home of her friend, Miss Edith Mattson of Third Addition. This being the regular meeting night of the league at St. John's Church parlors, Miss Dudley was invited to call on Miss Mattson on her way to the meeting. On her arrival there she found the members of the league, along with several invited friends, gathered for a joyous birthday celebration. Lively games were indulged in, interspersed with vocal and instrumental music. Refreshments, too, were not overlooked. At a late hour the happy gathering dispersed, wishing Miss Dudley many happy returns of the day.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

TOLD IN THE HALLS

Clara Poppiano and Ambrose Aylsworth are back at school after a week's absence.

There was a baseball game last Saturday between South City and Sacred Heart at Ewing Field. Score was 4-7 in favor of Sacred Heart.

Two students from the University of California spoke on self-government and the honor system in the high school auditorium last Friday.

The low juniors are to give a prom on the 21st of this month. Hand in all names to Alpheus McGovern and Ernest Robinson.

The new play, "Clarence," is being rehearsed. The first act was rehearsed Monday without books.

THE DEBATE

A debate was held by Miss Price's high sophomore English class on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The question was, "Should France Have Entered the Ruhr?" The speakers on the affirmative side were Mary Fraser, Jeanet Jones, and Edwin Kingsland. On the negative side the speakers were Fred Junker, Fletcher Cook, and John Fahey. Edwin Kingsland and Fletcher Cook had the rebuttals. The judges, Miss Barnett, Mr. Reed and Mr. Weller, decided in favor of the affirmative side—two to one.

A large number of students and teachers were present. All enjoyed the debate, which was interesting as well as instructive.

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!

"Clarence," a comedy from the pen of Booth Tarkington, is to be presented some time in May. The play is alive with humor and compares favorably with other plays given by the high school.

Tryouts for the various parts took place on Tuesday afternoon before Mr. Weller and Miss Clifford, the play committee. After some discussion, the following cast was selected:

Clarence Alexis James '23
Mr. Wheeler Elmer Vaccari '23
Mrs. Wheeler Gertha Lane '24
Bobby Wheeler Alpheus McGovern '24
Cora Wheeler Florence Lewinson '23
Violet Pinney Laura Baldini '24

Friday, April 6th, we were honored by the presence of Miss Turner and Mr. Taylor, seniors of the University of California, at our school. They spoke of the honor system used on the campus, and also of its success where the teachers did not have to remain in the room when an examination was going on.

ANNOUNCEMENT

of Interest to

MILLIONS of FAMILIES

"I will build a car for the multitude"

Said Henry Ford in 1903—Read how the fulfillment of that prophecy is now made possible through the

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

For many years it has been Henry Ford's personal ambition to make the Ford the universal family car—to put it within the reach of the millions of people who have never been privileged to enjoy the benefits of motor car ownership.

During the past fifteen years over 7,500,000 Ford cars have been placed in the hands of retail customers—more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months—and yet there are millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford.

And now the way is open.

Under the terms of this plan you can select your Ford Car, set aside a small amount each week and you will be surprised how soon you will own it. In the meantime your money will be safely deposited to your credit in one of the local banks where it will draw interest.

Think it over. Five dollars will start an account. The whole family can participate in it—father, mother, brothers and sisters each doing a little.

Why not start today? Stop in and talk it over with your local Ford dealer. He will be glad to fully explain the details of the plan and help you get started toward the ownership of a Ford car.

THE CHART

SYNOPSIS.—Cruising with his friend, Sir William Skelton, on the yacht Dryad, on the Bahama bank, Bobby Ratcliffe, wealthy, twenty-two and irresponsible, becomes dissatisfied with conditions on board. The arrival of a small fishing boat attracts his attention and he visits her, finding the vessel is the Sarah Tyler, owned and sailed by Satan Tyler and his sister Jude, the latter in the costume and having the manners and appearance of a boy. Ratcliffe is strongly attracted by Satan and Jude and envies their adventurous life. Following a quarrel with Skelton, Ratcliffe accepts the invitation of the Tylers and joins them on their boat.

CHAPTER II.—Continued.

"Not much!" said Jude. "They'd boot you off the ship. Water's what you ask for, pretendin' you're dying of thirst; then you drink till you're near bustin' and fill the breaker you've brought with you. It's all on the square. Satan would never hold up a ship unless he had some fish to offer them for whatever he wants—potatoes or fruit or tobacco. He's got the fish in the boat and hands it up. They're always glad of fresh fish and they offer to buy it; but he won't take money, but says, 'If you've got a few potatoes handy, I don't mind takin' them for the fish.' Sometimes it's fruit he wants, or other things. Then you push off—and if it's a passenger packet the passengers, thinkin' they've saved you from dyin' of thirst, line up and cheer. It's no end of fun."

"What flag do you sail under?"

"Murrican, what else? You see," went on Jude as he put the potatoes into the kettle, "fish costs nothing to us and they're mighty glad of it, but reckon they'd bat our heads off if they knew about the dyin' of thirst business."

"But suppose you struck the same ship twice?"

"It's not a job one does every day," said Jude, with a trace of contempt in her tone, "and Satan don't wear blinkers, and it's not a job you could do at all if you didn't know the lie of the fishin' banks by where the ship tracks run. I reckon you've got to learn something about things."

"I reckon I have," said Ratcliffe, laughing, "and I bet you'll teach me!"

"Well, say that over to begin with," said Jude, giving him the pail of dirty water.

He flung the water over the side. When dinner was over Jude made Ratcliffe help to wash up the plates and things in the galley.

"Satan's cap," said Jude. "He never helps in the washin' or swillin'. Not cold water!—land's sake! where did you learn washin' up?—hot! I've left some in that billy on the stove."

She had taken off her old coat and rolled her guernsey sleeves up to the shoulders nearly, and it came to Ratcliffe as he helped, without a word of reproach, naturally, and as a part adapts itself to the economy of a whole, he had sunk into the position of kitchen maid and general help to the Tyler family; furthermore that Satan was less a person than a subtle influence. Satan seemed to obtain his ends more by wishing than by willing. He wanted an extra hand, and he had somehow put the spell of his wish on him, Ratcliffe.

Only for Jude and the Sarah and the queer new sense of freedom from all the associations he had ever known, only for something likable about Satan, the something that gave him power to wheedle things out of people and bend them to his wishes, Ratcliffe might have reacted against the Tyler hypnotism. As it was, the whole business seemed as jolly as a pantomime, as exciting as a new form of novel in which the folk were real and himself a character.

Leaving Satan and the old Sarah aside, and the extraordinary fascination of spars, sails, narrow deck and close sea, catching one's own fish, cooking one's own food, and dickerin' with winds, waves, reefs and lee shores for a living—leaving all these aside, Jude alone would have held him; for Jude gave him what he possessed when he was nine—the power of playing again, of seeing everything new and fresh. Already they were good companions and, when together, of the same age, about nine—though she was fifteen and he over twenty.

"Stick them on that shelf," said Jude. "Oh, Lord!—butter-fingers!—lemme! That's the gadget to keep them from shiftin' if the ship rolls. Now stick the knives in that locker. You don't mind my tellin' you, do you?"

"Not a bit."

"Well, that's all."

They found Satan under the awning, attending to the gooseneck of the spare gaff.

Jude sat down on the deck clasping her knees, criticized Satan's handiwork, received instructions to hold her tongue, and then collapsed, lying on her back with knees up and the back of her hand across her eyes. She could sleep at any odd moment. A trace of smoke was rising from the yellow funnel of the Dryad as she lay like a white painted ship on a blue painted ocean. They were firing up.

"How about getting ashore?" asked Ratcliffe. "I want to see that cache of yours. Care to come?"

"I'd just as soon leave it till they're away," said Satan, jerking his hand toward the Dryad. "There's no tellin', they might be spottin' us on the location with a glass, and they'll be off tonight—so the chap told me. You leave it to me and I'll show you a cache better nor that in a day or two."

"Shut up, Satan!" came a drowsy voice from the deck.

"Shut up yourself!" said Satan. "I'm not talkin' of what you mean: I'm talkin' of the abalone reef—lyin' there like a lazy dog and lippin' your betters!"

"Where's me betters?" cried Jude, sitting bang-up suddenly, like the corpse in "Thou art the man."

"I'm your betters,"

Jude broke into a cracked laugh.

"Listen to him talkin'!" cried she to the universe in general. "Ain't fit to bile potatoes!" She was on her feet, and he was after her with a rope's end, dodging her round the mast. "Touch me and I'll tell him!"

A flick of the rope's end caught her, and next moment she was clinging to Ratcliffe and using him as her shield.

"It's an old ship sunk south o' Rum key!" cried Jude. "South o' Rum key! I told you I'd tell him if you touched me."

Satan dropped the rope and resumed the gooseneck business.

"Now you've done it!" said he.

"Told you I would," said Jude. She sat down on the deck again as though nothing had happened, and nursed her knees.

"You needn't mind me," said Ratcliffe. "I won't tell."

"Oh, it's not that," said Satan, "but Pap was mighty particular about keepin' close. He located that hooker only three months before the fever took him—and he didn't come on it by chance nuther. And now Jude's given the show away. That's a woman all over."

"Who are you callin' a woman?"

THE LOST CANYON

LONG years ago, before our fathers and our fathers' fathers were born, but long after the Manitou had created the boiling springs and the beautiful hills and the valleys for his children, the chosen people were rich and prosperous. Gold and silver they had in plenty—and the brave ones of the tribes wore glorious ornaments and rings and bracelets made from pure gold they took from the hills where the Manitou had laid it.

And all the chosen people were happy, and there was plenty of food and plenty of meat and the entire tribe waxed rich from the fruit of the plains and the gold and silver of the hills.

But one day there came from the southlands strange white men, swarthy of countenance, bearing strange rods which spit forth fire and sparks and which killed at long distance. Their clothes were strange to look upon and on their faces they grew long hair, and their language was a strange one to the chosen people, who made them welcome and who shared their tipis with the strangers.

When the strangers saw the gold and silver ornaments they became much excited, and by gesture and strange speech they demanded to know where the precious metal could be found. And there was no one among the chosen people to tell them how to go or where to find the gold—and those who knew only shook their heads and ran away, for they were sore afraid.

When the chosen people would not tell, the strangers became angry and turned upon them with their magic rods—and from the rods came thunder and flames, and many of the chosen race were killed and sorrow was on the land. And the chosen people ran and hid in the canyons and in the hills while the strangers roamed the land. Finally one day they found one of the chosen ones, the son of the aged chief, and took him and bound him fast and threatened him with death unless he would lead them to the spot whence came the gold.

Now it so happened that all the gold was taken from a hidden canyon—and no one knew its entrance except the chief and his sons and his family. And when the son was captured then the old chief came forth from the mountain where he was hid and promised to take the strangers to the gold if they would spare the life of his son. This they promised to do.

So the aged chief led them in sorrow to the hidden canyon and the strangers laughed and shouted and beat him on the back and spit in his face. And when they saw the gold they shouted aloud and each and every one threw down his rod and began to pick and dig at the shining rock where the gold was hidden. And the chief then asked the leader for his son that he might lead him back safe and unharmed.

But the leader only laughed, and turning his rod toward the young lad he killed him there, and then he slew the chief while all the while the others laughed and joked.

But when the Manitou saw the cruelty and greed of the strangers he was very wroth. And as they killed the chief he sent the darkness. And in his anger he picked a thunderbolt and hurled it earthward to the walls of the canyon. The walls split and slid in, and all the strangers were buried up in the mass, and the mouth of the canyon was closed by the slide and the strangers could not get out and there they died—and there was none to help them in their plight.

When the chosen people saw what the Manitou had done, they fell on their faces and thanked him for his grace, which saved them from the cruel and grasping strangers. And there they vowed that never more would they enter the canyon walls for fear of death.

So was the canyon lost and to this day no one has been able to find its mouth or enter to gather there the gold. Yet it is there between the two great peaks—a giant canyon closed at both its ends.

If you doubt, go forth and find it there. And if you enter into its hidden depths there will you find the magic rods of those who went before. And there are riches too, for him who finds and enters in the canyon which is lost.

"Bulls" and "Bears" of Finance.

The origin of the stock exchange terms "bulls" and "bears" has never been satisfactorily explained. The phrase is of great antiquity and can be traced in one of Cæsar's plays produced in 1720, when the exchange was still known as "New Jonathan's." It has been suggested that "bear" is a reference to the selling of the bear's skin before killing the bear, while a "bull" is supposed to be a speculator who buys stock for forward delivery in the hope that the price will rise so that he can sell out at a profit without taking up and paying for the stock. Contangoes, which have been reintroduced, are the percentage paid by the buyer of stock for postponement of transfer day, the term being derived from the Spanish word "cintengo," meaning "I check."

Some Campaign Songs

By Ellwood Washington

The way of denouncing or proclaiming a presidential candidate first sprang from the custom of singing George Washington's praises. It was not until after the unwise rule which gave the candidates with the highest number of electoral votes the presidency and the candidate with the next highest number the vice-presidency.
was changed that party feeling crept into the rival verses. The first campaign song of this kind was composed by the Jeffersonians in 1800, and ran:

The Federalists are down at last,
The Monarchists completely cast;
The Aristocrats are stripped of power;
Storms o'er the British faction lower;
Soon we Republicans shall see
Columbia's sons from bondage free.
Lord, how the Federalists will stare
At Jefferson in Adams' chair.

During the campaign of 1840 party feeling ran high. The contest was between Martin Van Buren, nicknamed "Martin the First," and the Indian fighter, William Henry Harrison. The following goes to the tune of "Yankee Doodle":

That Matty loves the workingman,
No workingman can doubt, sirs;
For well he doth pursue the place
That turns the workers out, sirs.
He turns them out of Whig employ,
He turns them out of bread, sirs;
And middlemen doth he annoy
By striking business dead, sirs.
For Matty is a Democrat,
Sing Yankee Doodle Dandy;
With spoons of gold and English
coach,
And servants always handy.

The most famous of Harrison's songs was that called "Tippecanoe and Tyler, Too," which ran:

What has caused this commotion,
motion, motion,
Our country through?
It is the ball a-rolling in, for Tippecanoe and Tyler, too.

And with them we'll beat Van,
Van, Van, the used-up man,
Let them talk about hard cider, cider,
cider,
And log cabins, too—
It will only help speed the ball for Tippecanoe and Tyler, too.

Van, Van, Van,
You're not our man.

Maine had a particular version of this song, which says:

She went hell-bent
For Governor Kent,
For Tippecanoe and Tyler, too, etc.

The expression, "Up Salt River," used in former days to describe political defeat, owes its origin to a river of that name, a branch of the Ohio, running through Kentucky.

When Henry Clay was running against Jackson in 1832 he employed a boatman to row him up the Ohio to Louisville, where he was to make an important political speech. The boatman was an adherent of Jackson and he missed his way accidentally, on purpose, and rowed Clay up Salt river, and therefore Clay did not reach Louisville in time to meet his engagement. This term was used in the campaign of 1840 in this song:

Our vessel's ready, we cannot delay,
For Harrison's coming and we must away—
Up Salt River; Up Salt River;
Up Salt River; Oh, high-ho.

The full dinner pail was as much in evidence in the Polk-Clay political fight as it was during McKinley's two campaigns, Clay's friends using this song:

Here's health to the workingman's
friends,
Here's good luck to the plow and
the loom;
Him who will not join in support of our cause
May light dinners and ill luck
illumine.

At one time the Whig party called itself "the same old coon" that carried the country in 1840, and used this song:

The moon was shining silver bright,
The stars with glory crowned the
night,
High on a limb that "same old coon"
Was singing to himself this tune:
Get out of my way—you're all unlucky,
Clear the track for Old Kentucky.

But when Polk won his friends turned the tables by using this parody:

Not a cheer was heard—not a single shot,
As away to a ditch they hurried;
No bank-paid orator rose to spout O'er the hole where the coon was buried.

So rapidly tumbling him all alone,
With his tail's wounded stump quite gory,

They raised a faint shout, 'twixt a cheer and a groan,
And left him alone in his glory.

In the campaign of 1848 the friends of "Old Rough and Ready," as Zachary Taylor was nicknamed, used this song as a slogan:

Clear the track if your toes are tender,
For honest Zach can never surrender.

James Buchanan, called "the government hack," "Ten-cent Jimmy," etc., had to suffer much abuse from his opponents. Here is one song:

The dough, the dough, the facial dough,
The nose that yields when you
tweak it so,
It sighs for the spoils—it sells its soul

For a spoonful of pap from the treasury bowl.

But Buchanan's friends came back with this:

less numerous.
When Fremont raised a flag so high
On Rocky mountains' peak,
One little, busy bee did fly,

And light upon his cheek,
But when November's ices arrive
To greet the Colonel's sight,
Straight from the Democratic hive
Two B's will on him light—
Buch and Breck.

Millard Fillmore, an accidental
president and extremely unpopular, sought to be an elected one, but was defeated. Here is a song his opponents used:

There lives a man in Buffalo,
His name is Millard Fillmore,
Who thinks the Union's sunk so low
It ought to take one pill more
To purge away the prejudice
Which true men have for freedom,
A canting, pompous wretch he is
Who'll cheat you if you heed him.

Party feeling ran high during Lincoln's campaign. This song to the tune of Yankee Doodle was very popular:

Lincoln came to Washington
To view the situation,
He found the world all upside down,
A rumper in the nation.
He heard Secession laugh to scorn
And call him but a noodle,
Laugh on, he cried, as sure's you're born
I still am Yankee Doodle.

Andrew Johnson was another accidental president and sought to be an elected one, but failed. Here is a song to the tune of "Just Before the Battle, Mother," which his enemies used:

Just before the 'lection, Andy,
We are thinking most of you,
While we get our ballots ready—
But, be sure, they're not for you.
No, dear Andy, you'll not get there,
But you'll get what you deserve,
Oh, yes, you'll get your leave of absence

As you swing around the curve,
You have swung around the circle
That you ought to swing 'tis true,
Oh, you tried to veto congress
But I guess we'll veto you.

Grant's campaign brought out many martial and patriotic songs, and it is from the following song that Roscoe Conkling took the lines when placing General Grant's name before the convention. It is called, "Come, Fill Your Glasses, Fellows":

So, boys, a bumper,
While we all in chorus chant—
For next president we nominate
Our own Ulysses Grant.
And if asked what state he hails from,
This our sole reply shall be:
From near Appomattox Courthouse
With its famous apple tree,
For 'twas there to our Ulysses
That Lee gave up the fight;
Now, boys, to Grant for president,
And God defend the right.

During the campaign of Blaine and Logan against Cleveland and Hendricks many books of campaign songs were published by both parties. Since that time campaign songs have been less numerous.—National Republican.

If everybody "has it in" for you, that's no reason why you should take it out on somebody else.

A noise-maker is seldom a joys-maker.

Hold Court in Sick Room

Instead of postponing a civil action, involving a $41,000 judgment, until one of the litigants in the case had recovered from a severe illness, sessions of the District court were held in the sick man's bedroom for two days. This novel session was held in Minneapolis, Minn., the sick man being Fred Kreofsky, intervener in the action. The complainant in the case is George Matcham and the defendant, R. R. Betcher.

CAN YOU DO THIS?

George Christensen of New York is gifted with remarkable muscle control. He can write with either hand or foot and is shown in the picture writing with both hands and feet simultaneously.

SKIPPER OF LEVIATHAN

Capt. Herbert Hartley, master of the S. S. Magnolia, has just been named as commander of the United States line steamship Leviathan, formerly the Vaterland, which is to go into commission sometime this summer or early fall. Captain Hartley gained fame in 1917 when he commanded the St. Louis, first armed passenger vessel to defy the German admiralty and sail through the barred submarine zone.

DECORATED FOR BRAVERY

Miss Dorothy J. Smith of Lawrence, L. I., one of the few women to receive the decoration of the American Cross of Honor, awarded her for saving the life of Edmund Lawler from the Hudson river at Nyack, N. Y.

A Quick Recovery.
Blinks—Look, here comes Wilkins down the street.
Jinks—I thought he broke one of his ribs in the basketball game last night. I guess they called in a surgeon to operate on him.
Blinks—Oh, no, they just went down to the butcher shop and got a spare rib for him.

One-Man Vessel to Tour World

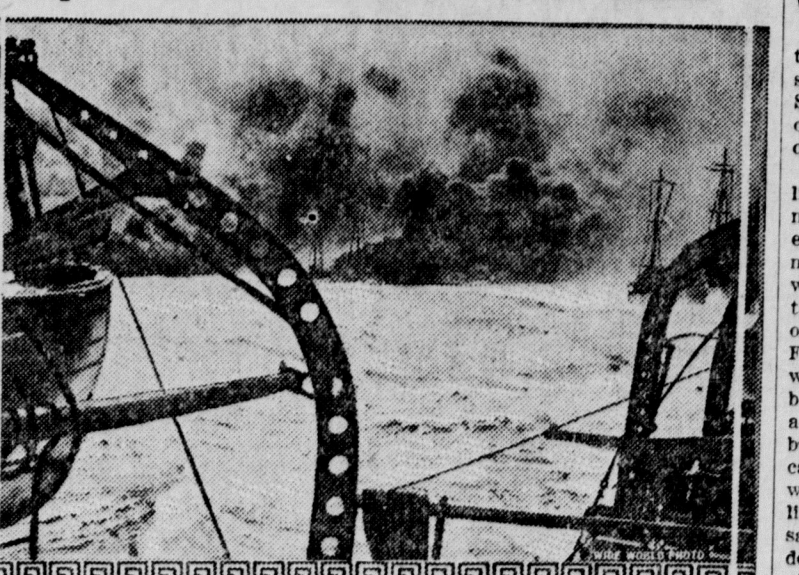

William Roland and his makeshift sloop-rigged vessel, scarcely larger than a rowboat, with which he will attempt to circle the globe. Built on the mudflats at Los Angeles harbor, the vessel resembles a submarine rather than a sailing ship. The old sailor has toiled for three years to complete his little vessel. It is 22 feet long, 7 feet wide and 7 feet deep.

Horseback Radio Set the Latest

It took John Osborne, a well-known Philadelphia business man and member of the Riders and Drivers' association, to devise the horseback radio. Osborne created a stampede on the bridgepark in Fairmount park the other day by appearing on his horse completely equipped to receive radio messages.

GOOD TALES of the CITIES

Policeman's Plea Saves Boys' Father

CHICAGO.—Life in this Twentieth century civilization is certainly getting pretty complex. For example: Nearly three months ago little Frank Plaskewicz, nine years old, and his brother, Bruno, six, cringed in terror against the wall of the bedroom of their home at 4315 South Hermitage avenue and watched their father, John, thirty years old, stab to death their mother, Magdalene. As his mother dropped to the floor, little Frank ran into the street and shouted for the police. Policeman Joseph Stachowski appeared. The slayer was taken to the police station, where he confessed. Policeman Stachowski saw the children weeping in the station. He had no children of his own. He took them home with him. Mrs. Stachowski took them into her arms. As time went on the spirit of sympathy turned into a bond of mother love. One day Mrs. Stachowski dressed up the children in their best and accompanied her husband to the Criminal court building, where Plaskewicz was to be tried. The four took a seat in Judge Michael L. McKinley's courtroom. Plaskewicz came into the court with his attorney and entered a plea of guilty. The action placed him in the shadow of the noose or life imprisonment in Joliet. After several witnesses had given damaging testimony, Policeman Stachowski moved forward. "Your honor," he addressed the court, "I arrested Plaskewicz on the night of the murder. I took his children home with me. My wife and I love them. I investigated and found that this man's wife was not true to him. She was living with another man. That was the cause of the passion on his part that led to the murder. "These children are too bright and sweet to have the stain of being the sons of a murderer placed on them. They want their father." Judge McKinley asked the state's attorneys if they would consent to waive the murder charge and let that of manslaughter stand. This was agreed upon. "Your sentence is from one year to life," said Judge McKinley to Plaskewicz. "You are open to parole at the end of 11 months. When you get out you can return to your children."

Rod Rules in Mohawk Valley Schools

UTICA, N. Y.—The rod rules supreme in Mohawk valley schools. East Herkimer's famed split-infinitive school-boy thrashing case, which turned the village into two factions and engendered much bitter feeling, came to an end when County Judge George A. Bell at Herkimer decided that a teacher may thrash a grade school pupil with a rubber hose for not knowing the definition of a split infinitive. Charles Engell, fifteen, could not answer when Schoolmaster Petrie asked him to define a split infinitive. Petrie, it was testified, then took an 18-inch length of rubber hose and thrashed the pupil. Pomeroy Engell, the boy's father, had Petrie arrested for assault in the third degree. Justice of the Peace C. H. Goodrich found Petrie guilty and fined him $25. Petrie appealed. Judge Bell vindicated Petrie. The decision in the case, which has attracted the attention of school authorities throughout the country, is in part as follows: "It does not appear by any witness, including this boy, that he was physically injured. It does not appear but that this boy is of full size for his age and in good health. No anger or passion or malice on the part of this teacher was shown. "It will be noticed that in law the same rule applies to a teacher as to a parent; and I am sure that if the father or mother of this boy had done just what this teacher did and had been arrested, there would not have been a conviction. "A teacher must be in authority and have control in a school. If not, there would be no school. Many years ago a learned and judicious schoolmaster said to Charles II, in the plenitude of his power: 'Sire, pull off thy hat in my school, for if my scholars discover that the king is above me in authority, they will soon cease to respect me,' and the king pulled off his hat to demonstrate by example that the schoolmaster's authority should be respected even by a king."

Her Folks Apparently Didn't Want Him

NEWARK, N. J.—Charges of conspiracy involving former Senator James A. Culberson of Texas, may grow out of the trial of John F. Ellis, detective. Ellis and other detectives were employed by the senator to escort former Sgt. Alexander Robertson of the British army out of America. The Culberson family admitted, after the failure of the attempt, that they wanted Robertson to leave this country, hoping by this means to break up the romance of the young Briton and their only child, Mary. When Robertson had Ellis arrested and created an official scandal by declaring that the senator had tried to "shanghai" him, the British embassy hastened to offer him its support. And it is through the activity of British government agents that Ellis went on trial on the kidnapping charge. The Culbersons do not deny that they employed the private sleuths. But they deny that they instructed the detectives to pose as agents for the Department of Justice. One of the most interesting bits of Robertson's story is his description of the efforts used by the detectives to prove to Miss Culberson that her sweetheart was unworthy of her affection. "The three detectives," Robertson said before the trial, "came to my 'unt's home' at midnight. They showed Department of Justice badges and ordered me to go with them. I obeyed because I knew little of American laws. They never charged me with anything. They kept me locked in a Newark hotel room for one night, then took me to Boston to a cheap dockside rooming house. "After telling me they had bought a steamship ticket to the Argentine, they brought a lot of liquor in the room and tried to get me to drink it. I refused, believing it to be drugged. And then they suggested that I might have a desirable 'woman companion.' "They said they would find a pretty woman, and let her accompany me to South America. I recognized this move instantly. They would have taken pictures of me with this woman and sent them back to Mary Culberson in Washington. Finally I escaped, came back to Newark and had Ellis arrested. "When the Culbersons realized how badly Ellis had bungled his job they got in touch with the heads of the agency and Ellis was dismissed. "When Robertson's story was made public, Miss Culberson was removed immediately from the Holton Arms school at Washington and secluded. Her allowance was cut off, and all her mail intercepted by her family. Later she was sent to Europe, where, it is said, she now is in school in France."

Has Brown Mountain Ghost Been Laid?

GASTONIA, N. C.—Has the ghost of Brown mountain in Burke county been laid? George Rogers Mansfield of the United States geological survey says it has and that he did the laying. Some agree in part with him. But old-timers sniff scornfully at the geology expert and his findings. The ghost was a series of curious lights which glowed over Brown mountain with punctual regularity every night. Now at one spot and now at another, a luminous sphere would rise from behind Brown mountain, hover in the air for a few seconds or minutes and then disappear. Frequently the nebulous ball of light would have the appearance of a newborn star; sometimes it would glow as fitfully as a firefly, then it would be an angry red, then a cold blue. It came from nowhere and it went nowhere. It was the Brown mountain light and that was all any one could say about it. Many parties of residents with inquiring minds spent nights on Brown mountain and in the valley and attempted to track down the light. It was like seeking the end of the rainbow. Finally the people of the region appealed to United States Senators Sim-

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Fail to Consider Direction.

One rainy night, just as a Central avenue street car, south-bound, pulled away from Twenty-first street, a man and woman rushed to the rear platform and excitedly asked the conductor: "We have not passed Twentieth street yet, have we?" The conductor in a businesslike manner said: "Why, we are already at Twenty-first," and stopped the car. The inquiring passengers alighted in the rain and started north toward Twenty-second street.—Indianapolis News.

Why He Likes Rats.

A young chaplain found a convict feeding a rat. "Ha! So you have a pet, eh?" he inquired.

"Yes, sir," replied the convict, his hoarse voice softening, and a gentle smile illuminating his hard face. "I think more of this rat than I do of any living creature!"

The chaplain laid his hand on the man's shoulder. "In every man," he said, "there is something good if you can but find it. How came you to take such a fancy to the rat?" "It bit the warden, sir," the convict replied.

A CORRECTION

Recently Judge J. G. Walker was quoted, during a reprimand given to an offender brought to his court, as saying "We native-born citizens have to obey the law," etc. This should have read "We American citizens have to obey the law, and this court is going to see that you who are not citizens do obey the law."

CARD OF THANKS
